Introduction

The course covers ethical theory and applied ethics and is obligatory for all participants in the Master programme in auditing, accounting and tax. The course provides a basic introduction to the concepts of ethics and morality and presents and demonstrates decision support models for ethical and moral choices. In addition the course gives an overview of the essential laws and other sets of rules which regulate the auditors' professional conduct.

Learning outcome

The objective is to make the students aware of the necessity of identifying and analysing the ethical and moral aspects of alternative possible actions, to provide the students with knowledge of decision support models which may be applied in situations which are perceived as ethical or moral dilemmas, and to give the students necessary insight in the regulatory framework for the auditing profession.

Prerequisites

All auditing courses in the first and second term of the programme.

Additional information

Honor Code

Academic honesty and trust are important to all of us as individuals, and represent values that are encouraged and promoted by the honor code system. This is a most significant university tradition. Students are responsible for familiarizing themselves with the ideals of the honor code system, to which the faculty are also deeply committed.

Any violation of the honor code will be dealt with in accordance with BI's procedures for cheating. These issues are a serious matter to everyone associated with the programs at BI and are at the heart of the honor code and academic integrity. If you have any questions about your responsibilities under the honor code, please ask.
